Michael:

I was disappointed to read of the continued uncertainty that will beset the communications industry as a result of the recent FCC decision to continue the un-economic policies of UNE-P resale. I believe your position was correct and I applaud you for your courageous stand. Until policy makers recognize the importance of allowing appropriate returns on capital investment this industry's infrastructure will continue to atrophy and that will eventually impact both this country's economic growth and its national security.

I am sure you are getting offers for help from many sources and if I can add my voice to them. please let me know.

Sincerely,

Joseph P. Nacchio
